

CELEBRATION OF IRISH HOLIDAY IS MARRED BY BATTLE

First St. Patrick's Day With Ireland As Free States Celebrated Throughout the Island—Fight At Cork.

Cork, March 17. — A pitched battle between members of a Free State band, which was celebrating St. Patrick's Day, and a group of Republican extremists resulted in the killing of one bandman and wounding of two others early today. One Republican sympathizer was wounded.

Promptly at midnight a brass band blared out a welcome to the national holiday. On its march through the streets it was met by the De Valeraites, who attempted to disperse the musicians.

Some of the extremists opened fire and three bandmen fell. The fire was returned from the ranks of the band, a Republican being wounded.

After a fight, the contestants were separated by military police.

Dublin, March 17. — Ireland celebrated St. Patrick's Day by hailing the birth of the Irish Free State.

The national festival was utilized for a vigorous campaign throughout Ireland in support of the peace treaty with Great Britain.

Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, went to the heart of the disaffected area, South Cork, where he addressed several meetings.

Liam T. Cosgrove, minister of local government in the Dail cabinet, and Gerald O'Sullivan, adjutant general of the Irish Republican army, addressed Free State meetings in Queens county.

BLUEGRASS LEAGUE ORGANIZES WITH SIX CLUBS IN LINE-UP

Banker E. L. Willett, Of Mayville, Is Elected Secretary of League—Mayville Opens April 28 at Winchester.

Lexington, Ky., March 17. — The Blue Grass League became a certainty Thursday.

Six clubs, representing Lexington, Paris, Cynthiana, Mayville, Mt. Sterling and Winchester, make up the new organization, the final steps in the formation of which were taken at a meeting at the Phoenix hotel last night.

Thomas M. Russell, of Mayville, president of the old Blue Grass League, which ceased to exist a decade ago, was elected president of the circuit. E. L. Willett, of Mayville, was elected secretary, and J. A. Estes named official statistician.

A schedule calling for fifty games for each team, to be played on Thursdays and Sundays, was adopted. The season will open on April 23 and close on October 12. Lexington will have 20 Sunday and five Thursday games at home, while all the other clubs will have 11 Sundays and 14 Thursday games at home.

Yesterday morning delegates from Lexington, Paris, Mayville and Cynthiana visited Winchester and Mt. Sterling, which had shown considerable hesitancy about entering the league, and both towns signified their intentions of lining up with the four "charter members." Each town in the circuit now has a franchise with the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, and is entitled to all the protection given by that organization. The Blue Grass league will be in class D.

Paris will be at Lexington on the opening day, Sunday, April 23; Mayville at Winchester, and Cynthiana at Mt. Sterling.

Present at the meeting last night were B. F. Goodman and George D. Speakes, of Paris; S. Reese, of Cynthiana; Claude Watkins, Secretary Willett, President Russell, Dr. J. H. Hutchins, Ben Middleman, of Mayville; J. S. Baskett, of Winchester; Harry Hoffman, of Mt. Sterling; J. S. Morton, S. J. Amato and L. M. Perkins, of Lexington.

MARK TWAIN STORY IS PASTIME'S BIG FEATURE

Pastime Theater Will Feature Filming of "A Connecticut Yankee" on First Four Days of Next Week.

Mark Twain's masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been made into a motion picture by William Fox on a scale worthy of the subject. Issued as a special production, it will open an engagement at the Pastime Theater on Monday and continue through Thursday.

Known to the multitude of Mark Twain lovers as "The Yankee," this story is regarded not only as a great classic of American humor, but also as a forceful satire directed against those who sigh for the "good old times." Mark Twain set out to show that the world we live in is the best of all possible worlds, and the time we live in is the best of all possible times. This he did by taking a typical young American, bright as a new penny, filled with smart, up-to-date ideas, and setting him down in a medieval court, where he could judge for himself whether the knights of old were more courageous than the men of today, and whether life as a whole was more comfortable than now.

The result is exquisite fantasy and delicious fooling, with a sharply drawn conclusion. "The Yankee" is rated high among Mark Twain's books. Certainly it is one of the funniest. The picture was directed by Emmett J. Flynn, noted for his skill in fidelity to detail. The Yankee is played by Harry C. Myers, a well-known light comedian.

INVESTIGATION INTO HELPER'S SINKING IS TO BE MADE

Government Steamer Iriquois Endeavoring to Locate Sunken Steamboat—Bodies of Victims Not Yet Found.

Cincinnati, March 17.—The towboat Helper, which capsized Thursday with the loss of two lives, had not been located Friday by government engineers.

The government dredgeboat Iriquois was taken to the place where the towboat was seen to plunge under the swollen waters of the Ohio River near Southern R. R. Bridge, but no trace of the ill-fated boat could be found.

Engineers were no certain the boat would be found in the same place where it is plunged under. The strong current of the river, some believed, might carry the boat under water some distance down river.

Bodies of Captain E. A. Burnside of Ft. Pleasant, W. Va., and Mrs. Edna Schletker, wife of Arthur Schletker, mate, of 212 West Seventh street, Newport, who were drowned when the boat turned over, are believed to be in the sunken wreck. Burnside was trapped in the pilothouse and Mrs. Schletker in the kitchen when the Helper suddenly turned turtle.

R. P. Gillham, vice president of the Campbell's Creek Coal Co., which owned the boat, announced Friday he had ordered other steamers of the company to cruise about the place where the Helper was last seen in an effort to locate it.

Harry Burnside, engineer on the steamer R. P. Gillham, which the Helper was going to aid in landing some barge of coal, remained here Friday to aid in efforts to locate the sunken boat and recover his brother's body.

Don and Max Burnside, of Detroit, sons of the dead riverman, arrived Friday to join in the search.

John K. Payton and George W. Dameron, U. S. steamboat inspectors, were under instructions of Colonel E. N. Johnston, commanding U. S. District No. 1 Engineers, Friday to make an exhaustive investigation of the tragedy and fix responsibility. The engineers do not expect to make much headway until the sunken boat is salvaged.

BRINGING THE COAST TO THE MIDDLE WEST.

Chairman Lasker, of the Shipping Board, is authority for the statement that in an interview which he had with President Harding two or three weeks after he was nominated, the President declared: "My great ambition is to come into history as the President in whose administration the American merchant marine was put back on the seven seas." The broad and comprehensive manner in which the President handled the merchant marine problem in his recent message to Congress points to the fact that this subject, second to none, engrosses the attention of our Chief Executive. Not only has he outlined the aids and exemptions which will insure the perpetuation of our merchant marine, but he has suggested a number of projects which, if adopted, will link up the merchant marine with the interior as well as the seaboard.

Of first importance among those projects is the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, respecting which the President said in his message: "Contemporaneous with the awakening we have the proposal to carry our ocean-going facilities to the great 'unsalted seas,' which shall place the farms of the Mississippi Valley on a market way too the marts of the Old World," and, in another place, referring to this proposed waterway, he said: "We have had a new manifestation of this broadened vision in the enthusiasm of the great Middle West for the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, by which it is intended to connect the Great Lakes ports with the marts of the world. There is far-seeing vision in the proposal, and this great and commendable enterprise, deserving your favorable consideration, is inseparable from a great merchant marine."

It is therefore highly commendable in Governor Miller, of New York, to have pledged himself to support the construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, provided an impartial board of experts, after making a thorough investigation, should report it feasible and practicable. There has been considerable opposition on the part of certain New York interests to the St. Lawrence project and Governor Miller has exhibited a courageous statesmanship in ignoring that opposition to the extent of supporting the project if it should prove to be feasible. His promise was made after a joint debate with Governor Allen, of Kansas, on the subject, in the course of which the latter insisted that the Middle West "living in the tragedy of transportation," wanted the seacoast brought 1200 miles nearer, so that the 18 states producing 70 per cent of all the wheat, 66 per cent of all the corn, 80 per cent of all the oats and 70 per cent of the barley in the United States, might cut down its transportation charges. "We are now," said Governor Allen, producing our food-stuffs upon the longest rail radius in the history of the world."

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project is of national interest, and no private interest should be permitted to interfere with it, if it is practicable. There has been opposition on the part of the Middle West in the past to any plan for merchant marine aid which included subsidies or subventions. The reason was plain. Not coming into direct contact with ocean transportation, that section could with difficulties almost insurmountable be convinced of its advantages. But the canal project would put them into direct touch with the merchant marine and thereby assure their support of that great industry. Appreciation of that fact is already apparent in the lessening of Middle West opposition to the President's program as that section visualizes the possibilities of the projected waterway.

WHAT SHIPS MEAN TO FARMERS.

What ships mean to country America is demonstrated in the movement of American grain into the interior of Russia. Don Livingston, Commissioner of Agriculture of South Dakota and a member of the purchasing committee for Russian Relief of the American Relief Association, reports that the first two steamers that sailed from Baltimore, Mr., carrying approximately 500,000 bushels of mixed corn have arrived at Novorossisk. Four hundred cars were assembled at the port to rush the grain to the interior in an effort to save the children from starvation.

Since the first of the year thirty steamers have left for Russia bearing relief corn—in round figures 5,700,000 bushels, in addition to 1,464,750 bushels of wheat. The ships have cleared from New York, Baltimore, New Orleans, Philadelphia, and Boston. In days of old when partisans were bold the suggestion of government aid for American shipping was regarded in the light of iniquitous graft, but the people are coming to see that American ships mean the expansion of American trade and that a merchant marine is a real import to the farmer who may never have seen a ship. Criticism is urged of the present subsidy plan as outlined by President Harding and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, in that it will mean on the basis of allotment the giant ocean passenger liners will receive great favor while slow freight vessels will not be aided materially. This is something the farm bloc may be relied on to investigate. Ships mean increased agricultural activity and agricultural activity means increased prosperity for all the people. Undoubtedly there would be still a greater driving force behind the development of an American merchant marine had Chairman Lasker carried out his program of education instead of confining it to the glittering generalities that have characterized his talks at banquets to advertising men.

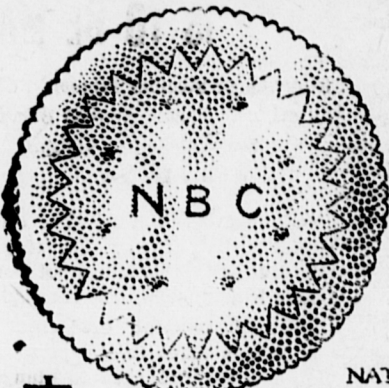

New witnesses are to be called by the House Military Committee in its investigation of the various offers for Muscles Shoals. Already enough information has been uncovered to show that there is a substantial demand for the property, and that it can be completed and operated at a profit by whoever is given control. Last summer Henry Ford posed as a public philanthropist who was willing, for substantial consideration, to relieve the Government of a practically worthless and idle investment. But the truth has come out since then, and when the property is disposed of the price paid will be approximately what it is worth.

If the bonus gives us an opportunity to experiment with the sales tax, perhaps we shall learn something new about taxes. Just now the sales tax has as strong supporters as it has opponents, but we shall never know its real merits or demerits until we try it.

ROOSEVELT ON FORD'S CANDIDACY.

Washington. —Col. Theodore Roosevelt's opinion of the relative merits of Truman H. Newberry and Henry Ford as senatorial candidates is shown in a letter Roosevelt wrote Newberry October 19, 1918. It reads in part as follows:

"My Dear Commander: I congratulate you on your nomination, but far more do I congratulate Michigan and all our people. It was my good fortune to have you serve under me as Secretary of the Navy, and I can testify personally to your efficiency and your disinterested and single-minded zeal for the public service. To a very peculiar degree you have stood for that kind of government which puts the interest of the people as a whole first and foremost, and treats all other considerations as negligible when the public weal is involved. The record made by you and your two sons in this war is typical of your whole attitude as a public servant. Both your boys at once entered the Navy, and are now on the high seas. You sought employment abroad; when that was refused you, you accepted any position that was offered in which you could render public service."

"The nomination of Mr. Ford makes the issue sharp and clean. It is not primarily an issue between the Republican party and the Democratic party, for Mr. Ford does not seem to have any firm political convictions, and was content to take the nomination on any ticket without regard to what the general principles of the men supporting that ticket were; and his memory about past politics is so hazy that although he has mentioned a Republican candidate for president for whom he thinks he once voted, it does not appear that this is possible, unless he is in error as to his own age."

"To issue is infinitely more important than any merely political issue. It is the issue of straight Americanism, of straight patriotism, and of preparedness for the tasks of peace and war, as against a particularly foolish and obnoxious type of pacifism preached in peace and practiced in war. This is the first time in the history of our country in which a candidate for high office has been nominated who has spent enormous sums of money demoralizing the people of the United States on a matter of vital interest to their honor and welfare. The expenditures on behalf of pacifism by Mr. Ford in connection with the peace ship, and in connection with his great advertising campaign in favor of the McLemore resolution and of the pacifist and pro-German attitude against our participation in the war, was as thoroughly demoralizing to the conscience of the American people as anything that has ever taken place. The failure of Mr. Ford's son to go into the army at this time, and the approval by the father of the son's refusal, represent exactly what might be expected from the moral disintegration produced by such pacifist propaganda. Your two sons have eagerly gone to the front. They stand ready to pay with their lives for the honor and the interest of the American people, and while they thus serve America with fine indifference to all personal cost, the son of wealthy Mr. Ford sits at home in ignoble safety, and his father defends and advises such conduct."

"Michigan is facing the test, clear-cut and without shadow of a chance

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Maysville resident has withstood this sternest of all tests.

Mrs. M. Holliday, 221 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I have been greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills and I have reason to recommend them. At times my back has become lame and ached just over my kidneys. My kidneys were irregular in action and I was dizzy. When ever I have used Doan's Kidney Pills I always get relief from these complaints. I certainly think them a good reliable remedy. I always get Doan's at Wood & Son's Drug Store."

The above statement was given November 16, 1916, and on November 22, 1920, Mrs. Holliday said: "I am glad to say my kidneys have given me no trouble since using Doan's Kidney Pills four years ago. My general health has been good. I gladly renew the statement I gave recommending Doan's at that time."

Price 40 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Holliday had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

for misunderstanding, between patriotism on one side, and on the other pacifism and that foolish sham cosmopolitanism which thinks it clever to deride the American flag and to proclaim that it would as soon be a Hindu or Chinaman as an American. If there should be at any time in the future a Hindu senate, and it should choose, in a spirit of cosmopolitanism, to admit outsiders, there is no reason why Mr. Ford should not aspire to membership therein, but he would be signally out of place in the American senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in the American ideal and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people."

New York Letter

By Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — According to the girls who sell things in the smart shops of Manhattan there is one "very nice woman" in this city. It is Mrs. Vincent Astor. "Never does she forget to be thoughtful for a tired clerk," one of them explained. "I've known her to intend to leave without buying something she really wanted just because it was getting toward closing time and the girls looked tired. I'd stay an hour extra for her an' yim—but that's it, she's one who wouldn't want you to."

Even church architecture is giving way to the business block idea. A seventeen-story hotel with a church occupying part of the first three floors and a school for missionaries on the fourth is to be erected at Broadway and 104th street within the next few months according to plans just announced. It is to stand on the site of the present Metropolitan Tabernacle and to be taken over by that church when it is built. It will be more than a church and hotel; it will be a church-hotel. There will be strict supervision of its guests so that the moral tone of life will be assured. Church members will be particularly catered to; cards and dancing are to be prohibited; and general decorum will be pronounced. The Tabernacle is undenominational, but its present pastor is a Presbyterian.

—NY—
Our New York City legislators are proud of their jobs. That's quite apparent. One of them has introduced a measure to have the state appropriate $7,500 for gold medals to be worn by each state senator and representative. Whether the purpose behind this effort has psychological connection with the much-worn story about the bootleggers having to wear badges to keep from selling to each other, I don't know.

—NY—
Thrift is not entirely gone from the world—or even from this city—in spite of the pessimists. Mrs. Mary Giles, a maid employed for many years in the house-keeping department of one of our big hotels, died the other day, leaving an estate of $16,000 and she had never earned more than $18 a week.

—NY—
The art students of New York had a wonderful time the other night when the Society for Illustrators gave them a party. For each illustrator wore a tag marked with his name and the students thronged around their favorites, gleaning information, advice, and personal glory. Many of them brought samples of their work with them for expert judgment—and they got it as frankly as was commensurate with a party.

A very gentle and rather admirable etiquette for the divorced is being built up by the most urbane of those men and women who have passed through the experience. For instance, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, established a precedent of considerable poise the other night when she appeared at the ball given by her former husband for their daughter Muriel and took her place next to him in the receiving line. There were resultant rumors, of course, of a reconciliation; but it seems to be accepted by those who ought to know that it was simply a matter of making a difficult position as pleasant as possible for their daughter and their mutual friends.

—NY—
Arthur Hopkins' next production at the Plymouth Theater will be a new play entitled "Voltaire," in which Arnold Daly will play the part of the French philosopher. It is not a biographical play in the usual sense of that phrase, since the action is confined to 24 hours in Voltaire's life.

WORKERS ARE HEIRS.

Omaha, March 16 — When the will of Louis G. Doup, owner of a wholesale furniture house, was filed here, it was found he had bequeathed practically all of his $600,000 estate to four employees.

His wife was left with $20,000 to be held in trust.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING BULLETINS INDICATE

Conference On Unemployment After
Survey, Says That Business
Shows Much Improvement.

In a bulletin issued by the President's Conference on Unemployment, to mayors and chambers of commerce of all cities of 20,000 population and over, favorable reports from widely scattered localities are given as an indication of improvement in business conditions. To show the nation-wide upward trend, reports are included from Asheville, N. C., Baltimore, Md., Clarksburg, W. Va., Columbus, Ga., Johnson City, Tenn., Macon, Ga., Boston, Mass., Omaha, Neb., Passaic, N. J., Sacramento, Calif., and San Francisco, Calif.

Arthur Woods, chairman of the emergency committee issuing the bulletin, adds:

"There is every reason to hope that the worst is over, and at no time has the situation been as bad as all indications pointed last autumn. The gratifying response of so many municipalities to the appeal to their sense of community responsibility has solved many a local problem, any anything which cities and towns can do to advance public projects to give even temporary employment, will be of double advantage and assistance right now.

"From all reports, the next few weeks will be among the most trying of the present unemployment emergency. As winter nears its end, the number of families and individuals who reach the end of their resources is bound to increase, no matter how hopeful the prospect of seasonal employment, after spring is fairly under way. This is the time when every possible measure that is at all practicable to relieve the situation should be adopted."

While the past three weeks have brought visible evidence of recovery, with many individual communities throughout the United States showing marked improvement, the officials of the conference state that even if the peak of unemployment has been passed, the peak of relief work is still to be faced. An improvement, though of considerable magnitude, may mean little or nothing to dependent families for months to come. Experience has shown that the small wage-earner is the final one to get back his job, and that the needy family is the last to feel the benefits of the revival of industry.

400 MORGAN FARMERS SEE PRUNING METHODS.

West Liberty, Ky. — As the result of a number of pruning demonstrations held in different parts of the county by County Agent R. B. Rankin, many Morgan county farmers have been taught how to clean up their orchards as the first step in increasing their productivity, according to a report. A total of 35 demonstrations held in the county were attended by approximately 400 farmers.

and it will be Russell's next production upon the completion of "Money to Burn," an adaptation of Sewall Ford's story "Cherub Divine."

GET BEHIND THE SHIPS.

Washington. — "The extensive advertising campaign of the Shipping Board is awakening responses from individuals and organizations in all parts of the country," declares the Republican Publicity Association. "There is a growing realization that the movement for a permanent American merchant marine cannot succeed unless the people are behind it, and, conversely, it is certain of success if shippers and overseas tourists recognize what is their patriotic duty and patronize American ships. At its recent meeting at Indianapolis the American Legion adopted resolutions heartily endorsing the plea of the Shipping Board for wider patronage of its vessels. Government officials themselves are intimating to their subordinates that our merchant marine should be given preference in booking passages and making shipments of goods. The passenger lists of our ships show that the campaign of publicity is having the desired effect."

"It is well to remember in this connection that the sole reason for the traditional British supremacy in maritime commerce is the fact that the British people have been behind their shipping men and their government in their determination to maintain their merchant marine second to none. It is bred in the bone of the Britisher that the safety of the empire depends as much on a successful commercial fleet as it does on an adequate navy. School children are taught the advantages to their country in lending encouragement to British shipping, and are given study courses in foreign commerce that makes them familiar with the principal ports of the world, ocean trade routes, and the products and needs of the various countries. Their interest in maritime commerce is thus aroused at an early age, and it remains with them through life. Government aid in the shape of loans and subsidies to ship builders and operators is taken as a matter of course in Great Britain."

"In the United States there is quite as much attention to problems of national defense as elsewhere, but the minds of the people have not up to this time been sufficiently aroused to the importance of an adequate merchant marine as a guaranty of safety. The recent treaty for the limitation of naval armaments has brought renewed emphasis to the subject. With the capital ships of big navies held down in tonnage and gun power by arbitrary rules, as they will be for at least ten years to come, that nation will have preponderant power that has at its command a big merchant fleet capable of prompt conversion into auxiliary cruisers or transports. Had it not been for the huge British commercial fleet, the German U-boat campaign would have brought the speedy surrender of Great Britain. More than half of the American army was transported to the front in British vessels. If they had not been available there might have been a different ending to the war. How much more significant are those facts now that the strength of navies is to be restricted.

"Too often in the past the discussion of four merchant marine has taken on sectional aspects. Citizens of the Middle Western states have been inclined to look upon shipping as an industry of those states in proximity to either coast, but of no special interest to them. The observation has frequently been made that if foreign ships can do our ocean-business cheaper than our own it is better to give the business to them. Of course such a viewpoint takes no note of the commercial independence and national security that a merchant marine under our own flag gives. Those factors are of as much concern to every citizen of the United States as to another. Their proper appreciation by the people generally is all that is needed to insure our future upon the seas."

BURRY WOOL RESULTS

IN BIG ANNUAL LOSS.

Lexington, Ky. — With the average Kentucky sheep shearing about five pounds of wool, farmers in the state lose about 50 cents on each fleece that is marketed with burs in it, sheep specialists at the College of Agriculture have estimated in pointing out the advantages of removing these before selling the wool. Wool containing burs always is discriminated against by buyers, the price last year for burry wool being approximately two-thirds of that paid for clean wool. Wool worth 30 cents a pound will bring only 20 cents when it contains burs. In view of the fact that the state produces about 3,000,000 pounds of wool each year, a reduction of ten cents a pound on that containing burs represents a heavy annual loss to the farmers of the state which could be avoided, the specialists say.

"On the college farm, we have found that the burs can be clipped out more quickly and easily before the sheep are sheared than they can after the shearing has been done," L. J. Horlacher, in charge of the sheep work said. "Then too, if the grower attempts to clip or pick out the burs after shearing, the fleece is likely to be torn apart so that it will not be in such good market condition."

Tea in moderation is a useful stimulant; but if drunk to excess it will cause great depression.

WOMEN AND MEDICINE.

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegarde wrote a notable book on medicinal plants. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick, and thus they learned much of great value. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydla E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydla E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and of great value for this purpose. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.
